

Black Salt

Building on research carried out by Dr Ray Costello for his book Black Salt, the exhibition will use the personal stories of seafarers to chart a course through the often troubled waters of Britain's maritime past, and explore the pioneering work of Black seafarers and the challenges they faced.

We are looking for families with a seafaring background who are willing to share their stories or who perhaps have objects that belonged to a relative who was at sea. Perhaps you were a seafarer yourself and would be willing to share your experience?

Please email blacksalt@liverpoolmuseums.org.uk or telephone Rebecca on 0151 478 4455.

FREE ENTRY
liverpoolmuseums.org.uk

crew of the barque Moel Eilian 1889
(c) Maritime Archives & Library, National Museums Liverpool
(reference DX/1328)